صفوة الصفی

ṢAFWATU'Ṣ-ṢAFA

A biography of Shaikh Ṣafiu'd-dīn, the ancestor of the Ṣafawi kings of Persia from whose name the founder of the dynasty took its title Ṣafawiyyah or Ṣafawi.

Ṣafiu'd-dīn traced his descent from Mūsi Kāẓim, the seventh Shi'ite Imām and was first of the line who acquired any considerable reputation. He settled in Ardibel where he became famous for his piety and sanctity. His son, Ṣadrud-din Mūsa, as well as his direct descendants, Khawaja 'Alī, Shaikh Ibrāhim, Sultān Junaid and Sultan Ḥaidar (d. 893/1488), all acquired the greatest reputation for sanctity. The last named was the father of Shāh Isma'il Ṣafawi, the founder of the dynasty (906-930/1500-1524). Ṣafiu'd-dīn was a contemporary of Amir Timur.

The name of the author, Tawakkuli b. Isma'il b. Haji Ardebeli, surnamed Ibn-e-Bazzaz, and title of work are on f. 5. The full title is Assasu'l-Mawahibu's-Sunniyyah fi'l-Manāqibi's-Ṣafawiyyah.

MAJĀLISU'L-'USHSHĀQ

A collection of biographical notes on Sufic Shaikhs with special reference to their عشق مجازی love for the beautiful. The authorship is ascribed to Sulṭān Husain Mirza b. Mansūr b. Baiqara b. 'Umar Shaikh b. Timūr (873-911/1469-1506), but the Emperor Babur (899-937/1494-1530) refutes it in his memoirs (Erskin's news-letter, p. 109) and gives the name of Kamalu'd-dīn Ḥusain Karizgahi.

The title means "Assemblies of Lovers" and the work contains biographies of the following, under the heading majlis. Since most of the majlises have a painting depicting the portrait of the person described in that majlis, the subject as well as the paintings are as follows :-

Author's lengthy introduction, dealing with the mystical love of Joseph and Zulaikha, یوسف و زلیخا , on ff. 1v-27v.

Table of contents, on ff. 28-29v.

There are 4 paintings in the above :-

a. Adam's body, stark naked, is shown lying flat on the ground. The angels are performing the sijdah. A dark bearded man is sitting on prayer rug, on f. 8v.

CC-0. Jangamwadi Math Collection. Digitized by eGangotri. Digital Preservation Foundation, Chandigarh

b. Zulaikha pulling off King Joseph's garment from the back, on f. 18v.

c. Zulaikha seated on her throne has summoned Joseph to her presence. Seeing his beauty the women have swooned, on f. 20v.

d. A scene from the Mi'raj, (Ascension) on f. 24v.

The work begins on f. 30 with majlis I and there are 69 majlises and a khātima as under :-

Majlis I, on Imām Ja'far Ṣādiq (d. 151/768), on f. 30. He is shown explaining about the animals that give birth to young ones and those which lay eggs on f. 30v.

Majlis II, on Dhinun al-Miṣri (d. 161/778), on f. 31. He is sitting by the side of a stream and is shown watching a drunken man fast asleep and is being attacked by a scorpion on one side and a snake from the other, on f. 31v.

Majlis III, on Sulṭan Ibrāhim Ad'ham Balakhi (d. 162/779), on f. 34v. He is being reunited to his grown up son whom he had left as a young boy in Balkh. A woman is introducing the youth in front of the Holy Ka'ba, on f. 37v.

Majlis IV, on Sulṭān Bayazīd Busṭāmi, (d. 231–34/845–48) on f. 40, He is shown seated before a handsome youth and surrounded by a few attendants, on f. 41v.

Majlis V, on Ḥusain b. Manṣur Ḥallāj (d. 309/922), on f. 47. He is shown on the gallows watched by a few persons and a youth is lying on the ground overcome by grief, on f. 51v.

Majlis VI, on Shaikh Abul Ḥasan Khirqāni (d. 425/1034), on f. 52. His pet servant is shown slain while asleep, on f. 52v.

Majlis VII, on Sulṭān Abu Sa'id Abi'l Khair (d. 440/1049). on f. 53. At his door a youth is shown lamenting as the Shaikh did not accept him as his disciple, on f. 53v.

Majlis VIII; on Khwaja 'Abdullah Anṣāri (d. 481/1088), on f. 55. He is praying for food for his two companions and a handsome youth is shown bringing a plateful, on f. 56.

Majlis IX on Imām Aḥmad Ghazzali (d. 517/1123), on f. 60v. He is shown writing with a youth seated in front of him and both attended by an elderly person and a boy respectively, on f. 60v.

Majlis X, on Ḥakīm Sanai (d. 525/1131), on f. 63. He is handing over the sheep to the handsome butcher's boy and reclaiming his shoes, on f. 54v.

THAMARĀTU'L-QUDS MINI'ṢH-SHAJARĀTI'L UNS

An extremely rare collection of biographical notes on Sufic saints of India beginning from 'Ali b. 'Uthmān b. 'Ali al-Jullabi al-Ghaznawi al-Hujwiri (d. c. 465/1073) down to the compiler's time.

The author, Lal Baig, paymaster to Prince Murad b. Akbar, was a devotee of the saints from his early life and compiled this work at the age of forty but left it without an epilogue. After his death, in 1022/1614 however, his friend, Rūp, surnamed Khwāṣ Khān, had the work edited. He was a pupil of 'Abdu'l Qādir Badaoni.

The work is divided into four gurohs (companies) according to the period in which a particular Sufic saint flourished.

CC-0. Agamnigam Digital Preservation Foundation, Chandigarh

Guroh I, on those who died in the first century.

Guroh II, on those who died in recent years.

Guroh III, on those who were alive during the compiler's time but died before him.

Guroh IV, on those still living at the time of compilation.

Since this copy is defective at both ends and in several places in the middle, the following notes are from a complete copy of this work which is now in J. K. Singhania's Collection.

The names of the saints appearing in this copy are as follows : and these are tabulated, duly giving the names and numbers, from J.K.'s copy.

گلزار ابرار

GULZĀR-E-ABRĀR

A collection of biographical notes on the Sufic saints of India, and especially those of Gujerat, who flourished from seventh to eleventh cent. A.H. (XIII–XVII–C), compiled in 1022/1613, by Muḥammad Ghauth b. Ḥasan b. Mūsa Shaṭṭari.

In spite of its highly bombastic style this work is considered valuable on account of its correct dates, full of details and valuable information about many great persons who are left out in other works. It throws more light upon the Sufic life of Indian Muslims outside the Chishti Silsilah which had received more attention by other hagiologists.

The work was started in 998/1590 but was deferred for a long time and finally completed between 1020 and 1022/1611 and 1613, and dedicated to the Emperor Jahangir (f. 4v). The author's name is on f. 3 and the title on f. 4. The work begins, after a lengthy preface, on f. 7v.

It is divided into five chamans as under :–

Chaman I, on the saints of 7th cent. A.H., on f. 7v.
Chaman II, on the saints of 8th cent. A.H., on f. 23.

CC-0. Agamnigam Digital Presevation Foundation, Chandigarh

Chaman III, on the saints of 9th cent. A.H., on f. 43v.
Chaman IV, on the saints of 10th cent. A.H., on f. 66v.
Chaman V, on the Shaṭṭari Silsilah, on f. 93v.

This copy which is left incomplete contains the life of the author's father on f. 188., with which No. 259, of ASB also ends.

MAJMA'UN-NAFĀ'IS

A huge tadhkira on the Persian poets, arranged alphabetically. The author, Sirāju'd-din 'Ali Khān, takhallus Ārzū of Aurangābad, (d. 1169/1756) mentions the name of Mubārak Muḥyu'd-din, who assisted him in this colossal work (f. 2). The date of compilation, 1164/1750, is given by the author's pupil, Bīdār, in a chronogram, f. 2. گلزار خیال.

CC-0. Agamnigam Digital Presevation Foundation, Chandigarh

Ārzū was born in 1101/1690, and served under Niẓāmu'l-Mulk Aṣif Jāh I. He was a great writer and has to his credit several works like Sirāju'l-Lughat, Chirāgh-e-Hidāyat and Tanbihu'l-Ghāfilīn, etc.

The work begins with Abāyazīd (Bāyazīd) al-Busṭāmi, and ends with Yūsuf (f. 551 v).

Complete copy of this work is not found in other libraries like India Office and Royal Asiatic Society of Bengal, whereas our copy is a complete one.

BAHĀRISTĀN-E-SUKHAN (Revised edition)

A revised edition of the same, compiled from the original manuscript of the author, by his son Ṣamṣāmu'l Mulk, in 1172/1759. He begins with the history of his family and says in the preface that he revised the work after he was released from the prison and honoured by his father's titles.

The original work is divided into five ṭabaqas and a khātima whereas this revised work is arranged alphabetically. As against 128 biographical notes in the original, this work was to have 730. The notes on the prosody, etc., and the khātima were proposed to be deleted (vide note below).

The editor's introduction ends on f. 14 and is followed by table of contents (ff. 14–25). The work, therefore, begins on f. 25 with Alif. The names noted upon are as under :–

ALIF with 85 names.

MARDUM-E-DĪDAH

A tadhkirah of Persian poets whom the author, 'Abdul Ḥakīm (Mirza Ḥakīm Baig Khān) Hakīm Lahuri, (d. 1178/1765) has seen.

Ḥakīm Baig was the son of Shādmān Khān, a grandee of the Uzbeks who came to India during 'Ālamgir's reign. The Emperor granted him the title of Shādmān Khan with 700 manṣab. Under Farrukhsiyar, Shādmān Khān was raised to the rank of 3000 and under Muhammad Shāh to that of 5000. He had made a home in Lahore and died there in 1135/1723.

Ḥakīm Baig was born at Murādābad, in 1120/1708. When he was fifteen years old his father died. He had a taste for Persian literature and used to compose as well. The budding poet had the good fortune to meet Shāh Āfrīn Lāhuri which made him a good poet. His takhallus was Ḥakīm.

Before the advent of Nādir Shāh, Ḥakīm became a disciple of Ḥāji Muḥammad Sharīf in Qādiri silsilah. After Nādir's return from India, Ḥakīm went to Jahānābad and met Ṣādiq Khān who was a great man and a good calligrapher. Ṣadiq Khān wrote Ḥakīm's diwan which was stolen from him.

Muḥammad Shāh honoured Ḥakīm Baig with the title of Khan. He would have achieved higher ranks as he had access as well but his temperament was of Sufic taste.

As a poet, Ḥakīm had collected about 50,000 couplets and notes on 3000 poets of the past and present. He had referred 200 diwans and intended to compile a tadhkirah under the title of Intikhāb-e-Ḥakīm. While in Rai Baraily he suddenly dropped the idea, relinquished his posts and title and became a faqīr on 1st Jumada II, 1171/10 Feb. 1758, and assumed the name of Shāh 'Abdul Ḥakīm. He then left for Lahore to meet his relatives and stayed there for six months. From Lahore he went to Kashmir to meet Akhund 'Abdus Salām Naqshbandi. He stayed in Kashmir for one and a half years where he was looked after by Ghāzi Baig Khān, Bakhshi to I'timādu'd-daulah, and his son, Muinul-Mulk.

In Kashmir he met Mir Muḥibbu'llah, alias Abdul Malik Khan who introduced him to many poets. Hakīm had the privilege of meeting a few pious men also.

One night he had a dream and next morning he decided to go on pilgrimage to the Holy Cities of Mecca and Madina.

In those days it was not possible to move about freely and a permit was necessary. Ghāzi Baig Khān recommended Hakīm's case to Mahārāja Sukh Jiwan, who demanded his presence. Hakīm thereupon wrote a letter and pleaded that his being a faqīr prevented him from attendance.

فقر از بزم شها راجه مرا مانع شد از درش ورنه گدا شاه برون می آید

(Poverty (asceticism) has come in my way from attending the Mahārāja's assembly, if not his door is such that if a beggar enters he will leave as a king).

He at once got the permit and came to Jammu where he stayed for a month as the guest of Khwāja Hidāyatu'llah. He then came to Hushiyārpur and met his relatives and was obliged to stay with them for a year due to Sikh troubles. Having made arrangements for his relatives by the generosity of Khwāja 'Abdullah Khān he left for the Deccan.

With Nuru'l-'Ayn Wāqif, as a companion, he arrived in Aurangābad on 29 Rajab 1174/6 March 1761, and was well received by Āzād Balgrāmi and others. After a week's stay both left for Surat. Āzād gave him an introductory letter to Sayyid Qamaru'd-din Aurangābadi, a celebrity of the age who was staying in Surat at that time. The letter with some books were lost on the journey. Nevertheless, Hakīm was well received by Qamaru'd-din. Wāqif fell ill and stayed back but Hakīm boarded a ship by name Sulaimāni Makki and arrived in Jedda. He then left for Madina on camels and after a month's stay there went to Mecca. After performing the Hajj he boarded a ship called Ganjāwar and landed in Surat in Safar 1175/Sept. 1761. Here he picked up his friend Wāqif and left for Aurangābad where he reached on 15 Jumada I, 1175/12 Dec. 1761.

The above account is given by Ḥakīm in a Mathnawi (ff. 3–10 v) and the chronogram of his return from the pilgrimage is found in

که تا که شنیدم زروی کرم قبول خدا می شود حج ما

In Aurangābad, Ḥakīm went through Ārzu's Majma'un Nafā'is and he revised it in this manner that he picked out the lives of those poets whom Ārzu had met. In his work, therefore, Ḥakīm copied Ārzu's text and then added extra information on those poets. For such poets he earmarked—Bāb I. In Bāb II, however, he collected notes on those poets whom he himself has seen but Ārzu had left them out in his work. Ḥakīm had named his work Tuḥfatu'l Majālis but on Āzād's suggestion changed it to Mardum-e-Dīdah, (men whom I have seen). Āzād's chronogram gives the date of compilation as:

سال تاریخ رقم کرد آزاد تازه تالیف همایون لطیف

۱۱۷۵ھ

On 19 Shawal 1175/13 May 1762, Ḥakīm left for Hyderabad, and after staying there for a while came back to Aurangābad on 19 Safar 1176/9 Sept. 1762. On 2 Rabi II, 1176/21 Sept. 1762, Ḥakīm and Wāqif both left for Upper India but were robbed en route by the dacoits. Hakīm addressed Shafīq about his plight. Shafīq at once sent money and a few men to guard them. Subsequently Ḥakīm reached home safely and wrote to Shafīq saying that he arrived in Hushiyārpur on 2nd Shawal 1176/16 April 1763. From there Ḥakīm and Wāqif left for Kashmir and were the guests of Sarbuland Khān, Governor of Kashmir on behalf of Aḥmad Shāh Durrāni.

In 1182/1768 Wāqif wrote to Āzād from Multān that while returning from Kashmir Ḥakīm fell ill and died in Thatta in 1178/1765.

The author's name is on f. iv. and the title on ff. 11. The author's preface (ff. iv–11 v) contains a mathnawi about his tours and the pilgrimage.

The work is divided into two Bābs and Khātima as under: Bāb I, on poets whose lives are given in Majma'un Nafā'is. Extracts quoted from Majma'un Nafā'is and more information added by Ḥakīm.

GUL-E-RA'NĀ

A collection of biographical notes on Persian poets who were Indians by birth. The author Lachmi Narā'in Shafīq Aurangābadi, (d. 1224/1809) a prolific writer and a poet, was a devotee of Āzād Balgrāmi. He has to his credit the following works :–

1. Ṭamīq-e-Shigarf, 2. Ḥaqīqatha-e-Hindūstān, 3. Bisāṭu'l-Ghanā'im, 4. Ma'āthir-e-Āsifi, 5. Shām-e-Gharīban, and 6. Description of Ḥaidarābad.

The work was started in 1181/1767 and completed in 1182/1768, as given in the author's own chronogram, on f. 603 v.

از پی ختم این صحیفه شفیق کفت تاریخ نامهٔ مختوم

سنه ۱۱۸۲ ھ

In his short preface the author gives an extract from Āzād's Ma'āthirul-Kirām about the Muslim invasion of India (f. 2), and then traces the literary history of Persian under the Muslim rulers.

The work, which is arranged chronologically, is divided into two faṣls, and each is subdivided alphabetically according to the takhallus arranged chronologically. The names in this catalogue are however given in alphabetical order for easy reference.

Faṣl i, on Muslim poets, on f. 4.

Faṣl ii, on non-Muslim poets, on f. 55 v.

The work begins on f. 4 with the name of Āzād to whom the author has virtually dedicated this huge work.

A contemporary note on the margin of f. IV is very intriguing and goes to prove that the author of Gul-e-Ra'nā is not Shafīq but Āzād. It appears to the work of a person who was against the author.

Since this work is a rare one, and the copy transcribed during the life-time of the author, Shafīq, and his master, Āzād, the contents are noted in detail, and are as under :-

ṢUBḤE WAṬAN

Biographical notes on 91 Madrasi poets, with eleven ghazals of each, wherever their diwans were procurable, else extracts from Guldasta-e-Karnatak, compiled by Muḥammad Ghauth (Wāla Jāh Amirul Hind A'ẓamu'l Umara Mukhtāru'l Mulk Sirāju'd-Daulah Ghauth Khān Bahadur, Bahādur Jung, Nawāb of Carnatic, in 1258/1842.

This work was undertaken by the learned Nawāb of the Carnatic in order to give correct information and true portraits of the poets who were praised highly and unnecessarily in the Guldasta first because they were Madrasis like its author.

The Nawāb, a patron of Arts and Letters was a good poet and has many works dedicated in his name.

The author's name is on p. 20 and the title on p. 3. Table of contents in the beginning. The work is arranged alphabetically according to the takhallus and begins on p. 3 as under.

تلاش اوسکی تاریخ کی کر کے دل کہا کاشن بزم کفتار ہے ۱۱۲۵ ھ

In the preface the author states that there are many tadhkirahs on Persian poets but none on Hindi poets. He has, therefore, compiled this work which begins on f. 11 with Nuṣrati and ends abruptly with 'Uzlat. A mathnawi in praise of the Twelve Imams by Ḥātim is noted on ff. 9–11 v and his life on f. 2 v which the author has stated to be in the middle of the work.

Thus this copy is, in all probability, incomplete by a few folios. The names of the following poets are found in this work.

1. Abdāl Baig, Mīrzā Burhānpūri (a Persian and author's friend), on f. 45.
2. Ābru (Mīr Mubārak), on f. 31.
3. Aḥsanu'llah, on f. 39 v.
4. 'Ājiz ('Ārifu'd-din Khān alias Mīrza'ī), on f. 47 v.

MAJĀLISU'L-MU'MINĪN

A collection of geographical and biographical notes on sacred places and the lives of eminent Muslims, some of whom were Shiites but the majority, in spite of being Sunnites, are also dubbed as Shiites. The work was compiled in between 993–110/1585–1602 by Nurullah b. Sharīf al-Ḥusaini ash-Shustari, died after 1019/1910.

The work begins with the advent of Islam and goes down to the rise of the Safavides in Persia who adopted the Shi'a faith, as state religion in their kingdom, in 905/1499.

The work is divided into an introduction (فاتحه) and twelve parts (مجلس), as under :–

Fātiha, on correct definition of the Shia'h in general, and of the Imamiyyah Shi'ah and the Ithna 'Ashariyyah Shi'ah, in particular, on f. 4.

Majlis I, on mausoleums and places sacred to the Shi'ahs on account of their Imams, on f. 12.

SHUJĀ'-E-ḤAIDARI

A work dealing with wonders of different countries said to have been compiled by Muḥammad Ḥaidar, as per the orders of Sulṭān Muḥammad Shujā' who is reported to have sent the author along with 'Imādu'd-din to Tāshqānd, Irān and Ṭurān.

Prince Shujā' the second son of Shāh Jahān was not born at the time of his grandfather Jahāngir's accession but the author has mentioned the latter's name (f. 2). Thus this work is a crude fabrication.

The work is full of worthless material which has nothing to do with the science of geography. It is full of fables and myths.

The title is the combination of the fictitious prince's name and that of the author.

The work is of a later date than that of Jahāngir as the city of Shāh-jahānābād is mentioned in it, whereas it was founded in 1049/1639.

DIHLI

A collection of notes on religious and historical places, festivals, poets, musicians and artists of the Mughal metropolis Delhi during the troublesome reign of Emperor Muḥammad Shāh. The author, Mu'tamadu'd-Daulah Dargah Quli Khān Bahādur Sālār Jung, who accompanied Niẓāmu'l Mulk Āṣif Jāh I to Delhi was there when Nādir Shāh sacked that city. He had visited those places and met those men and women and then recorded his own impressions in this work. The work, however, has been compiled by a person who has not recorded his name.

TUḤFATU'L-'ĀLAM

In this work, the author, 'Abdul Latīf Khān Bahādur bin Abi Ṭālib al-Musawi ash-Shustari al-Jazairi, (d. 1220/1806), has given an account of his own life and travels from Persia to India and Europe, his native town, Shustar together with a few other towns. A Nuri Sayyid, nephew of the author of Tadhkira-e-Shustar (تذکرہ شوستر) No. 627, he has also given short biographical sketches of his ancestors from his celebrated grand-father, Ni'matullah (b. 1050 who lived for about 100 years) down to his own time. The work also contains twenty-one biographical sketches of contemporary poets and theologians whom the author had met during his life-time.

The author was in Calcutta where he met Abul Qāsim Mir Ālam, the ambassador of the Nizām (Mir Nizām 'Ali Khān Āṣif Jāh II 1175–1218/1762–1803) at the Court of the Governor-General Lord Cornwallis. Mir 'Ālam was related to the author and appointed him as his chronicler (اخبار نویس) and left him with Cornwallis when he returned to Hyderabad. In 1208 the Nizām honoured him with the title of Khān Bahādur and the mansab of 1000 zāt. Six years later he was asked to come back to Hyderabad.

S-N. 3 سفر نامه مختار الملك

SAFAR-NĀMA MUKHTĀR'UL MULK

An autograph account of the travels of the then Prime Minister and co-regent of Hyderabad, Mukhtār'ul Mulk Shujā'u'd Daulah, Mīr Turāb 'Ali Khān Sālār Jung, G. C. S. I., D. C. L., 1300/1883, to Bombay to attend the investiture of Her Highness the Begum Sahib of Bhopāl, with the insignia of the Most Illustrious Order of the Star of India, by the Governor-General Lord Northbrook.

This interesting diary gives a graphic account of the mode of travel in those early days of railways when some cities were connected and others were not. For going to Bombay one had to go by road to Gulburga (145 miles from Hyderabad) to catch the train, as the line connecting Bombay-Madras at Wadi was not constructed then.

The period covered was one month (from 7 Ramaḍan to 8th Shawal 1289) 9 November to 8 December, 1872.

Beginning : بتاریخ هفتم ماه رمضان المبارك سنه ۱۲۸۲ هجری روز شنبه صبح بوقت پنج ساعت الخ

S-N. 4 سیر محمدیه

SAIR-E-MUḤAMMADIYYA

An autobiography and account of travels in India and the Middle-East together with some aspects of sufic ways of life prevalent in 19th century. In all probability it is an autograph copy.

The author, Muḥammad Aḥmad Sayyāh (traveller) was born in 1231/1816. His father, Muḥammad Fatḥ 'Ali Balgrāmi was a Sufi of Chishti order after whose death the author succeeded him as murshid (spiritual guide). He then travelled to Balgrām and from there came to Madras. From Madras he started his pilgrimage tour and went via Bombay to Mecca and Madina and then to Egypt, Syria and Irāq. After returning to Hyderabad when he was 64 years old he compiled this Safar-nāma in 1296/1879 when Mir Maḥbūb 'Ali Khān Āsif Jāh VI, was the reigning Nizam. He is the author of 14 other works.

Table of contents and a short description together with the places visited in the itinerancies attached to the work in the beginning. A list of author's other works is appended at the end.
